

Gulf Research Centre Cambridge
Knowledge for All

GULF RESEARCH MEETING 2022

12th Annual Gulf Research Meeting Call for Workshop Proposals

14-16 July, 2022

Hybrid Event

Deadline:

November 30, 2021

Conditions for Proposing a Workshop and Participating in GRM 2022

- Two Workshop Directors from different institutions with at least one based in the Gulf Region
- Workshop Directors' CVs
- 3-to-5-page workshop proposal with the following sections:
 - Workshop title and abstract (1/2 page)
 - Objectives and scope of workshop (2 pages)
 - Contribution the workshop will make to the field of Gulf studies (1/2 page)
 - Draft of Workshop Agenda with potential paper topics outlined and highlighted (1 page)
 - Publication plan
- Acknowledgement of and Agreement with the Workshop Director and Publication Guidelines (click links below to access these documents)

Click here to access the 'Workshop Director Guidelines'

Click here to access the 'Publication Guidelines'

Scholars are invited to apply to direct a workshop focusing on political, economic, security or social issues related to the Gulf region at the 12th annual Gulf Research Meeting (GRM), which will take place as a hybrid format event on July 14-16, 2022 in Cambridge, UK.

The Gulf Research Centre Cambridge (GRCC) welcomes any innovative proposal dedicated to the study of the Gulf region in a social science context. Topics centered around energy transition, climate change, and conflict resolution mechanisms, as well as economic diversification and recovery are particularly encouraged. We especially look forward to proposals that address unique topics and areas of study where there exists a gap in the current literature.

By submitting a workshop proposal the workshop directors acknowledge that they have read and agree to abide by the Workshop Director Guidelines and Publication Guidelines

Proposals and /or questions should be submitted to grm@grc.net